VOLUME XXXIII.

HON. B. WALKER MCKEE, of Fryburg. [See p. 3]

Drawing Near the End.
For the past ten years S. D. Andrews and W. H. Whitcomb of this town have been the defendants in a law suit over the ownership of the Oconto (Wis.) Water Supply Co.
During this time the case has been fought through all the courts in Wisconsin and has been carried to the United States Supreme Court. The decisions almost without exception in the minor courts of the State were in favor of the defendants.
On the 6th of this month the U. S.
Supreme Court rendered a decision giving the title of the property to Messrs.
Andrews and Whitcomb free and clear of all encumbrance.
A decision on the right of redemption of the property from the U. S. Court of Appeals is now waiting for. When this decision is made it is expected that litigation will be at an end. This branch of the case was argued in June, 1900, and undoubtedly a decision will soon be handed down.
The Oconto Reporter in review of the case says:
In 1890 Andrews and Whitcomb loaned $40,000 to the Oconto Water Company from the city to construct and maintain a system of water supply for thirty years.
Although the company had no property except the franchise upon which it borrowed this money it obtained pipes, hydants and other necessary material on credit and it was expected that by the expiration of the amount loaned the plant would be sufficiently near completion to allow bonding for a sum sufficient to pay off this loan and other indebtedness, but this hope was not justified and the work came to a standstill. From the date of the loan the company has been unable to complete the plant. Andrews and Whitcomb not wanting to put more money into the plant offered to settle their claim amounting to $40,000 for $30,000, but as the Water Company had no resources it was unable to accept this offer and Andrews and Whitcomb were compelled to put more money into construction or lose that already advanced.
At this time they were threatened by the other creditors, who held claims, claims were prior and paramount, with the foreclosure of their claims against the Water Company as liens against the property and as a compromise offered to release their claims to said other creditors for $30,000 and contribute pro rata towards completion and take pro rata shares of the capital stock or to complete plant and issue first mortgage bonds on plant and franchise to full amount of other claims and interest but this was refused by the other creditors.
Andrews and Whitcomb then took the only course open to them and loaned the Water Company sufficient money to complete the plant according to the franchise in such manner as to secure its acceptance by the city. Before its completion the later loans came due which with the first remained wholly unpaid and Andrews and Whitcomb took possession, foreclosed mortgage and bid in the property and the sale was confirmed by the decree of court in which proceedings were held which established the title in Andrews and Whitcomb. The other creditors then began proceedings against the Water Company to foreclose their claims and from that date, 1891, the contest has been waged stubbornly in the state and federal courts with the above result.

Pythian Sisterhood Installs.
The Pythian Sisterhood publicly installed their recently elected officers at Pythian hall, last Friday evening.
After the usual exercises of installation a short program was excellently rendered as follows:
Solo.....Mrs. Frank Kimball Reading.....Bertha Mann Duet.....Mrs. F. Kimball Solo.....Mrs. Verne Whitman
Each of the above was fully appreciated by a good-sized audience and received an encore. Virginia Sargent was accompanist for the evening. This evening the Pythian Sisterhood installed their officers. Jay is busy getting out pulp-wood. It is being loaded on the banks of the Androscoggin and Ellis rivers.
Rev. B. F. Fickett attended the regular meeting of the Oxford Club held at the Methodist parsonage Sunday, Jan. 13.
W. P. Rogers of South Paris, Monday.
He is now assisting Rev. R. A. Rich at Paris, who is holding a series of revivals.
Al Thomas, who resides on Crockett Ridge, went to Andover on business, recently. Stabling his horses he left them for a short time. During his absence one horse kicked the other, breaking his leg. Upon Mr. Thomas' return the horse was killed.
These officers were installed in A. O.
Noyes Company, U. R., K. of P., last Thursday night:
Capt.-W. W. Shaw.
1st Lieut.-O. H. Brooks.
2d Lieut.-F. H. Hurd.
Sergeant-Howard B. Smith.
Treas.-W. C. Carey.
John Rhodes, who moved from Pike's hill into the village last fall, lost a valuable hound by being run over by the electric cars recently. If the electric cars would kill dogs we wish they would commence by killing some of the mongrel cur dogs that pest Main street.
A course of assemblies is now being run at the Opera House by Walter Stearns, commencing with last Friday evening. The assemblies are very well attended and the dancing is kept up until nearly midnight. The next dance will be held this (Friday) evening.

SOUTH PARIS.
"Tides" in Oxford.
Owing to the great success which the above play met with in the home town, it was presented in Oxford, last Saturday, and considering the fact that the "actors" were practically strangers to most of the residents they met with excellent success.
The party left early and held one rehearsal before the evening performance and everything was done by the scholars, A. D. Park, who has been coaching the home team, not attending. This did not, however, interfere in any way with the staging of the play and everything moved off as smoothly as could be desired.
At the close of the drama the floor was cleared and dancing indulged in until midnight.
Only one event occurred to mar the pleasure of the trip and this happened when the South Paris people, quite a number of whom attended, were returning from the Universalist church, where the upper end of Fore street, the night being very dark, one sleigh containing W.
F. Kelley and Edward Bliss went over the banking on the side of the street, throwing both young men out and breaking the shafts, dashes and crossbar of the sleigh, and scratching it considerable.
Kelley "slid" this time with such force as to throw his shoulder out but aside from this they escaped uninjured.
The horse cleared himself of the sleigh and ran. In the darkness of course it was impossible to catch him but the next morning he was found behind one of the houses in that vicinity unhurt.
Kelley is doing well at the present writing.

The play netted $38.75 in South Paris.
After paying all expenses in Oxford over $18 was left for the treasury.
The play will be presented on Paris Hill, this (Friday) evening, under the auspices of the Universalist church, at that place. The circle takes entire charge of the arrangements, furnishes supper for those taking part and pays all expenses whether the play nets the amount or not, thus removing all risks from the class. Aside from this the graduating class receives half the proceeds.

Norway Municipal Court.
Office A. P. Bassett recently arrested Theodore M. Twitchell on the charge of stealing two twenty dollar bills from Melvin Churchill. It seems that these two men have a camp in Stoneham and Churchill had a small trunk and in it were the two bills in question and his bank book for the Norway Savings Bank.
The camp got on fire when occupied by Twitchell but the fire was put out by Riley McKee, but the trunk containing the valuables was lost. Sufficient evidence was shown to bind the respondent to appear at the next term of the Supreme Court and for want of bail the respondent was taken to jail.
Clinton Poland, now of Mechanic Falls, was up before Judge Davis Monday for the larceny of a pair of harness tongs from Geo. W. Waterhouse of Locke's Mills and a gold ring from Waterhouse's daughter, Mrs. Bryant, of the same place.
It appeared in the evidence given at the trial that Poland was engaged in the woods near Locke's Mills and that he and his family lived in the upper part of the house occupied by Geo. Waterhouse and daughter.
At one time when the latter were away he went into the lower tenement and took the ring and from the stable took the tongs. Poland was fined $10 and costs.

Supper and Entertainment a Success.
The Universalist Good Cheer Society gave a supper and entertainment, Tuesday evening. Supper was served in Grand Army hall at 6.30. After supper and Ralph Penfold of South Paris also the evening.

About 150 partook of the excellent supper furnished by the ladies in G. A.
R. hall, and at the entertainment, held later in New Hall every seat was taken and many coming in late were obliged to stand.
Both the supper and entertainment were successes in every particular and a good testimonial to the enterprise of the ladies of the Good Cheer Society.

a vacation.

years has been on an army hospital staff in the Philippines and at Pensacola, Fla., has returned to his home here, his enlisting in the navy in the same capacity that he has served heretofore in the army.

Rev. Mr. Angell of Lewiston, who was to have supplied the pulpit at the Baptist church, last Sunday, failed to put in an appearance for some unknown reason, and after waiting until about eleven o'clock, Deacon G. B. Crockett read one of Halmage's sermons. The same quarter assisted in the services as on the previous Sunday. It is expected to have a supply each Sunday hereafter.

On Wednesday evening occurred the opening lecture by Rev. H. E. Dunnack of Augusta, of the much-talked-of Methodist course. The subject of the lecture was "Enthusiasm" and proved very interesting. Mr. Dunnack was assisted by Jessie Colman as vocal soloist. These lectures are to be given at intervals during the season and good speakers combined with interesting subjects will make this one of the most popular of the kind ever given here.

Life.

Our love of life is a wonderful thing,

Constant and true.

Our flesh and our bones,

Our thoughts and our hopes,

And all that we are and you.

We may grasp this life in our good strong hands

And make of it what we will.

And "tis all our own,

It is all we own,

Whether for good or ill.

It was given to us for our own great need,

To use as the soul sees fit.

Not ours to waste,

Either praise or blame

For the use she has made of it.

And when this life has grown worn and old,

Like a garment that's long past wear,

With never a sigh

Let us throw it by

For another life more fair.

And we'll shed no tears over rents or stains,

But in raiment that's wondrous fair,

Before the throne

We shall claim our own

In the land that lies "over there."

In the land that lies "over there."

CORA M. W. GREENLEAF.

A Chapter on Cats.

"Give me every time the house cat straight from the woods of Maine," said

D. S. Kindell of this city, (Philadelphia) the other day, when asked about the feline tribes he owns. At the same time he cuffed a large "coon" cat, who has taken the liberty of sharpening its claws on Mr. Kindell's shin bone.

What Mr. Kindell does not know about cats is not worth mentioning. He has fourteen now and more in sight.

As a seafaring man he has had the opportunity of studying the cats of Calcutta, Abyssinia, Persia, Denmark, in fact the whole tabby race all over the globe, and still makes the assertion quoted at the opening of this story. Cats are Mr. Kindell's hobby, and he has had the place in his affections formerly held by birds and dogs. He is somewhat handicapped by lack of room in his ambition to have a cat ranch worthy the name, as he lives with his sister, and while she takes a sisterly interest in his pets her enthusiasm is somewhat dampened by the pennant the cats have for playing tag up her parlor portiers and sharpening their claws in her blue and gold satin divan.

Mr. Kindell has a unique test for proving the lineage of a cat. If, when a kitten, it will not eat cracked corn he asserts that there is not enough of its wild nature predominating. Contrary to the general belief that the Maine "coon" or

"shag" cat is a cross between the common house cat and cats imported from Abyssinia or Persia, he is of the opinion that some fur-bearing wild animal—probably the skunk, marten or sable—is the cross. In support of this theory Mr.

Kindell says that he is the only animal whose fur will brush in any direction and remain as it is brushed, and that this has been a peculiarity of the coats of several cats he has owned.

If the Maine cats are descendants of imported cats from the warm countries of Asia, he says that it would be their nature to gravitate toward the South.

On the contrary they prefer the cold and flourish best when wild in the woods of Northern Maine. They hunt for a living, substituting mice, rats, moles and squirrels, and do not take naturally to milk or warm food, preferring when first domesticated to eat cold vegetables and scraps from the table.

The prize cat of Mr. Kindell's bunch is "Bill," who measures thirty-nine inches from tip to tip, and is a "scraper" from the drop of the hat. This particular cat takes "sass" from no cat, dog or human being. Like other Maine cats "Bill" fights like the wild animals from whom Mr. Kindell believes he has sprung. Whereas a common tabby spits and boxes, "Bill" rises on his hind feet, and, burying his front claws in his antagonist, bites savagely while he makes the enemy with his hind claws.

"Kitty" also has a reputation as a fighter, and likewise is a Maine cat.

"Kitty" was taken to the country to board when quite young, and at the same house was a fox terrier who was invariably looking for trouble. When the dog first got his eyes on "Kitty" he made a rush for her, anticipating a pleasant morning's sport. A most unusual thing happened, for instead of being the victim "Kitty" jumped on his back and sunk her hooks in him. The dog leaped and howled and when the family heard the rumples help him summon before pull the cat away; after that, when the cat and dog met, the canine stepped aside and gave "Kitty" the right of way.

Mr. Kindell has another cat named

"Jim" that for dignity and staidness is hard to beat. To address such a cat as

"Jim" seems as disrespectful as calling one's grandfather by his first name; even

"James" seems flippant. "Jim" gained fame when he was loaned to a man who was an early riser; that he might not oversleep the man had an alarm clock in his room, which would "go off" at the time set. For a while the clock did good service, but after some days "Jim" commenced to claw the bed clothes at the right times. The alarm clock was then done away with.

There is also "Love," who also bears out Mr. Kindell's assertion regarding the Maine cats. "Love" has a tail like a stalk of pampas grass and crawls in the highest hole in Mr. Kindell's roll-top couch to sleep; the owner says Maine cats prefer tall places in which to slumber.

Then, too, Maine cats are attached to persons, not to places, and their intelligence is far superior. Cats of all nations will soon gather sociably around

Mr. Kindell's rat-hole in the cellar, as he expects to have a tortoise shell cat from Denmark (not Maine, in this case) a cat from Calcutta, and a real Persian cat with a pedigree as long as a laundry bill. O. WARREN BROWN.

A Quaker Playground.

C. E. Cobb, Instructor in the Friends School at Providence, Has Leased the Bridgton House at Bridgton with the Privilege of Buying.

Bridgton is to have something rather novel in the shape of summer guests, next season. C. E. Cobb, instructor in the Friends School at Providence, Rhode Island, has leased the new Bridgton House with the privilege of buying for a short period, and will according to present plans establish in this vicinity two camps, one upon the shore of Long Lake and the second near Highland. The hotel, under the personal direction of Mr. Cobb, will be run as a sort of rendezvous for the parents of the children campers, who it is expected will be attracted here by the fact that their children are in the vicinity.

The camps will accommodate about seventy-five each and will be made of a number of small tents, each tent having sleeping room for about five. The campers will eat at a large mess table. They will at all times be under the personal supervision of elders, there being several in each camp. The elders will in all probability be prepared to act as tutors for those preparing to enter higher institutions of learning who are a bit "rusty" upon some subjects. There will be a girls' camp, as well as a boys', which will of course be fitted up rather better.

Mr. Cobb, who has had considerable experience in this sort of work, will arrive about the first of June in order that complete arrangements may be made for the reception of the campers who will range in age from about nine to eighteen years. Mr. Cobb being closely identified with the Friends School will of course attract many of the pupils of this establishment to Bridgton. There will be many campers who are not members of the school, as the colonization is not exclusively for the Quaker School.

Hebron Academy.

In the winter term our gymnasium does for us even more than foot ball in the fall or base ball in the summer term. For we have our spacious, well lighted base ball cage, exercise room and bath and basement, and all are steady and always comfortable. This year the entire gymnasium is electric lighted. So basket ball can be played in the evening, as well as as safely as in the sunlight.

We have a skillful trainer in the gymnasium who devotes his entire energy and time to this department. Every boy in school is required daily to work in the gymnasium. The trainer is Chas. E. Fogg, a graduate of Colby College.

The girls as well as boys have certain hours for work in the gymnasium. The gymnasium work in no way conflicts with study. From 4.30 p. m. until 5.14 is given entirely to this work with tumbling, vaulting, bar work, Indian clubs, dumb bells, etc., while in the noon hour and on Saturdays much work is done in the cage. The floor of the cage is earth and the length is 80 feet.

The chief work at Hebron is work in books. Our teaching force is this year increased by the addition of Alfred L. Laferriere, A. B., Bowdoin, 1901. Mr. Laferriere speaks the French language as his own language, no school in Maine to-day gives better work in French than does Hebron. The full requirements in French for Greek can now easily and efficiently be offered to students wishing to enter college substituting French or German for Greek.

Our course in mathematics has been enlarged and a course in solid geometry is offered to all entering technical schools. The work in sciences has been in our revised course of study enlarged. To English also much more time is now given.

Rev. Sumner Bangs, a recent graduate of the school, now of Everett, Mass., visited and addressed the school recently.

A Letter from Tony.

DEAR CHILDREN:—Boys and girls love pets so dearly, I am sure you will be interested in the story of my poor little friend Lancy.

I am a brown, curly haired Spaniel named Tony, and my friend was a small black cocker Spaniel named Sir Lancelot, but called Lancy for short. He had a shaggy coat, a stub tail, long silky ears that reached just to the tip of his little black nose, and the best disposition I ever met.

Of course there are other dogs in the neighborhood. Miss Winnie's Jap is not a bad sort at all, but Miss Clare's Fido is an atrociously ugly pug, so fat he looks like a bag of straw with a face homely enough to stop the clock. He has been petted and spoiled until he is that conceited he trots around with his snub nose in the air and scarcely looks at another dog—but with all his top-loyalty ways he is not above going around to the neighbors begging for cookies and other nice things, which he usually gets. Such luck some of these disagreeable fellows have!

But Lancy, he was a chum after my own heart. Such antics as we had! 'Tis not a bad sort at all, but Miss Clare's Fido is an atrociously ugly pug, so fat he looks like a bag of straw with a face homely enough to stop the clock. He has been petted and spoiled until he is that conceited he trots around with his snub nose in the air and scarcely looks at another dog—but with all his top-loyalty ways he is not above going around to the neighbors begging for cookies and other nice things, which he usually gets. Such luck some of these disagreeable fellows have!

'Tis not a bad sort at all, but Miss Clare's Fido is an atrociously ugly pug, so fat he looks like a bag of straw with a face homely enough to stop the clock. Such luck some of these disagreeable fellows have!

The last time I saw him was two weeks ago when he came up to see me and such a frolic as we had, until we were both tired out, when I went home to supper and he trotted off down the railroad to meet one of his people who was coming, although we had often been wary of keeping off the track. It was the last time I ever saw him.

I looked for him the next day and the next. I went down to his house and sat in the doorway but in vain. At last I could stand it no longer and on New Year's Day I went down and jumped against the door as hard as ever I could. No one came and I did it three or four times when Lancy's mistress opened the door and said:—"Why Tony, do you want to come in?" I followed her in expecting to see my friend. I looked in all the places I could think of but did not find him and then sat down by her side. She put her hand on my head and said:—"You came to find Lancy didn't you? but he will not come back to us any more for the cruel cars ran over him and Johnnie carried him off a long, long way and laid him in a bed of evergreen and covered him so deeply the snow and ice will not touch him."

I am sure I felt the tears fall on my brown curls as she talked and I wagged my tail solemnly and kissed her hand to express my sympathy. I wonder if my pretty young mistress would look so sad if the cars should run over me, but I never intend to give her the chance.

I went home but my heart aches every time I think of my dear little friend and his cruel fate, and I am so glad we never quarreled.

Yours sorrowfully, Hartford, Me., Jan. 6, 1902. TONY.

Sudden Death.

Albion Whitney died quite suddenly, Saturday morning, at Lyman Martin's, where he had been staying for some time. His son from Auburn came, Saturday afternoon, and made preparations for a funeral, which was held, Sunday at 1 o'clock, Rev. Seth Benson officiating. The remains were taken to Auburn, Monday, for burial.

The Webster Centennial at Fryberg on Jan. 1st, 1902, was so thoroughly enjoyable and has left such a pleasant memory in its train that many of those who participated in it have expressed a wish to have the proceedings preserved in printed form in order that the occasion might the better be enjoyed in retrospect, and in order that those Store Burglarized.

The store of P. J. Stanley & Son, Kezar Falls, was entered sometime during Friday night by burglars of a cheap type. They effected an entrance by forcing the front doors with a heavy instrument of some kind. It seems that they were very poor workmen at the business and very glib at that. The front of the cash register was pryed entirely off.

They entered the post-office which is in the same building and connected with the store by a door. There was a little money and about four dollars in stamps in the draw. They took the money but left the stamps. Probably they never wrote letters or did not know the value of stamps.

It seems that they were frightened away and did not wish to take too much for the safe contained over a hundred dollars and was not locked. Mr. Stanley reports their loss less than ten dollars. No clue as yet. A railroad spike was found on one of the counters which was probably the instrument used to open the register.

BUCKFIELD.

Serious Accident at Buckfield.
Mrs. J. V. Pearson and daughter Ethel, who is about 18, were out driving, Wednesday afternoon, when at the High street crossing the 3.10 p. m. north-bound passenger train struck the sleighing the two ladies about twenty-five feet on a field on the north side of the track and the horse about thirty-five feet on the opposite side.

Mrs. Pearson's arm was broken, her thigh considerably hurt and she was severely bruised. Her daughter was picked up unconscious and bleeding badly.

They were taken to the house of A. W. Libbey near by and Drs. Caldwell and Heald of Buckfield and Andrews of West Sumner were called.

At the time of writing (Thursday morning) Miss Pearson had recovered consciousness but was suffering greatly and her mother experienced a great deal of pain from her hip.

Had the train struck a little further back it is very probable both would have been killed outright.

The horse on returning from his aerial trip landed safely, not being hurt in the least. The sleigh was pretty well smashed.

Several rumors are prevalent as to the horse being frightened but Mrs. Pearson stoutly denies this but says that the track at this place is hidden from view of any one approaching by houses and trees and that they were upon the track before they knew the train was coming.

Lunt-Ulrich.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy H. Lunt, High street in Buckfield occurred the pleasant wedding of their only daughter, Bertha Estelle and Mr. Henry Grove Ulrich of Baltimore, Md. The bride was married in her traveling suit, the waist being of a delicate light blue color.

Mrs. Ulrich is a native of Buckfield. Receiving her early education in the public schools, she graduated with honors from Hebron Academy in '98, since which she has remained with her parents. The groom, until four years ago, practiced dentistry successfully in Baltimore, since then he has retired to private life.

Died from a Shock.
Died on the 4th inst., Sumner Evans, in the 83d year of his age. He had a shock and was discovered on Friday morning in an unconscious and apparently dying condition, from which he did not recover, but remained in a comatose state about 24 hours, when he passed away. He had been in his usual health of late, so far as had been noted. He was one of our oldest and best known citizens and will be missed and remembered as a prominent man. Mr. Evans was a justice of the peace for many years and town clerk for a long time. He had served on the board of selectmen for several terms and had represented this district in our State legislature. He was appointed postmaster and served in that office for over thirty years. For several years he was the principal merchant in this town. Mr. Evans was one of the charter members of Hiram Lodge, K. of P., and served as scribe of the lodge for a long time. During the past two years his son Eugene has cared for him. Funeral was held at the church, Monday p. m., Rev. Mr. Grindell of Lovell delivered the sermon, relatives and members of the lodge attending.

Our pastor, Mr. Pond, is sick with a severe cold.
